Is MACSE a risk-averse investment in Italian energy storage?

From ESS News 2025 is set to see rapid growth in investment in the Italian energy storage sector, led by battery energy storage systems (BESS), with the implementation of MACSE. The eagerly anticipated procurement exercise will offer a stable, predictable premium over 15 years, making it particularly attractive for risk-averse investors.

How will the MACSE policy support mechanism work in 2025?

2025 is set to see the start of a surge in Italian storage asset investment, led by BESS. The catalyst for this is the implementation of the new MACSE policy support mechanism, offering 15 year indexed contracts on up to 100% of asset capacity.

What is BW ESS & ACL energy doing in Italy?

In one of the most recent developments, it was announced last week that BW ESS and ACL Energy have expanded their joint project development pipeline for standalone, utility-scale battery energy storage systems (BESS) in Italy to 2.9GW, with a total of 14 projects to be developed across Italy's North and South electricity zones.

Is BESS a good investment in northern Italy?

While Northern Italy currently has the largest installed BESS capacity in the country, a build-out of RES in the South is increasing energy price volatility, creating a more compelling investment case for BESS in this region.

What is MACSE & how does it work in Italy?

The most relevant recent development for BESS operators in the Italian market is the introduction of MACSE. MACSE is a new capacity auction which offers 15-year contracts for energy storage projects. The first MACSE auction will occur in the first half of 2025 and is a fundamental step in developing the build-out of BESS in Italy.

How much energy storage capacity does Italy have?

As of November 2024 Italy had 5.1 GW/11.7 GWh of energy storage capacity. This is almost exclusively small-scale residential system, with utility-scale storage systems providing just 864 MW. To help achieve the target for utility-scale storage build-out, the Italian government has implemented the MACSE subsidy scheme as supporting legislation.
